The landmark development covers an area of over 46 acres in the heart of one of India's four new megacities and will comprise a total of 11 residential towers, extending up to 32 storeys high. Once complete ParkWest will offer in excess of 2,000 luxury apartments and penthouses, as well as a host of first class amenities for residents.

Designed to bring green spaces back to Bangalore, central to the plans are a seven acre bio-diversity park, and an exclusive clubhouse set in four acres of landscaped grounds. Facilities here will include an aerobics pod, amphitheatre, sports pitches, a butterfly Glepark, swimming pool and skating rink, among others.

Gleeds has been brought on board to manage the complex process of account closure for the three towers constructed during phase one of the development. In addition, the business will also be responsible for producing cost estimates in its capacity as pre-contract cost manager for the remainder of phase two, on which works are currently underway.

With over 260 staff and six offices in India, Gleeds has an impressive list of clients and projects to its name, having built up a strong reputation for exceptional service and professional cost management. This latest win follows a strong expansion programme by the consultancy in the region.

Commenting on the appointments Ben Huskisson, Gleeds director responsible for India, said: "With a population the same as London's, Bangalore is a front runner in the south Indian housing market and demand continues to increase at an unprecedented rate. Gleeds is pleased to be working with Shapoorji Pallonji Real Estate to deliver this exceptional residential development."

Shashank Mohite, general manager of budgeting & costing at Shapoorji Pallonji Real Estate, said: "SPRE is happy to be associated with Gleeds on this project. Having worked with the Gleeds team on other projects, we are confident that they will bring value and assist in timely manner."
